THE OLDEST MOST SUCCESSFUL LEGAL REFORM GROUP IN THE WORLD'S

goals are: Abolish self regulation of lawyers, make disciplinary hearings public, establish open public history of complaints against lawyers and judges, abolish laws that forbid non-lawyers from providing routine legal services, incorporate electronic recording devices to insure justice for all, require mediation in all disputes, use modern electronic methods to produce evidence, (i.e. tax returns, financial statements, bank statements), enforce perjury laws etc.

Surely these fundamental concepts should have come long ago from the judicial system itself. Yet, they haven't and they won't...unless we stand up and let it be known that "we've had enough". We will not compromise and we will not wait another 200 years. If you have not done so, please send your 2010 donation with your email address so that we can save a tree and a stamp.

All courtrooms are open, except in cases of child molestation. Pro se litigants were initially denied court watchers at fee dispute hearings (rule 137) but with the help of Amy Sheridan and Chief Administrative Judge Ann Pfau pro se litigants (defendants) are now allowed court watchers. Call ALR for procedures. Camp Hearings still deny court watchers and pro se litigants (see 2009- 8546, David Grossman vs. Maria Composto Longhi) One of the many reasons Maria Composto Longhi, mother of 3 special needs children is appealing is because she and her children were denied counsel by Matrimonial Judge McNulty.

"I'm kind of a lawyer hater". Don't get me wrong, we need lawyers. We need them to preserve the rule of law. We need them to defend us if others cheat us, steal from us, or deprive us of our rights. But the legal system is ruinously expensive and too often used "to destructive ends". John Stossel for the Institute for Justice, a national group of lawyers defending individual rights.
